MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER

This report provides a summary of the annual contributions received by each registered political party. In addition, it represents a year-long effort by the party officials who are tasked with financial reporting. Party officials are responsible for the meticulous tracking of contributions and financial records, for verifying contributors' eligibility, for preparing and distributing official receipts, and for submitting accurate and complete annual revenue returns by the statutory deadline. Party officials are to be commended for their personal commitment to this important role in the electoral process.

On December 3, 2015, amendments to the Elections Act were enacted, which affect financial reporting provisions. These amendments came into effect for the 2016 calendar year. Party officials were notified of the amendments in December 2015 to facilitate the implementation of necessary record-keeping practices to fulfill the new reporting requirements. Guides and resources will be developed to support compliance with the reporting requirements that are in effect for the 2016 calendar year.

Party officials have filed their annual revenue returns for 2015 in accordance with current legislative requirements, while adapting their record-keeping to file the 2016 returns on the basis of amended legislation. Their cooperation and commitment will ensure successful transition to the new legislative framework.

Lori McKee
Chief Electoral Officer

OVERVIEW

Section 382 of the Elections Act requires each registered political party to file an annual revenue return with the Chief Electoral Officer by March 31 for contributions received in the preceding calendar year.

An annual revenue return discloses the total amount of contributions received in the form of cash and negotiable instruments, along with:

- the number and total amount of all contributions up to $50
- the number and total amount of all contributions from $50.01 to $250
- the number and total amount of all contributions over $250

For each contribution over $250 made by an individual, the name and address of the contributor is reported, along with the amount contributed.

For each contribution over $50 made by an unincorporated group, the contribution amount is reported, along with:

- the name and address of the trade union or political party, if applicable
- the name and address of a principal of the unincorporated group, if the unincorporated group is not a trade union or political party
- the name and address of each contributor of more than $250 towards the total contribution or a statement indicating that there were no contributors of more than $250
